This partnership not only allows Southfield residents and businesses to report problems, but also to view, comment on, and vote to fix problems submitted by their neighbors. Citizens can even create their own “watch areas” to receive notifications about all the issues reported in their community, enabling them to follow the progress of all service requests — not just the ones they report.

City of Southfield appoints Elvin Barren new Police Chief

The Southfield City Council approved City Administrator Fred Zorn's appointment of Elvin Barren as the new Police Chief at the July 8 City Council Meeting. Chief Barren will begin his employment on July 29.

Chief Barren currently serves as Deputy Chief of Police of the Detroit Police Department (DPD) where he commands the largest bureau in the DPD, including eight major units, a yearly budget of $137 million and over 1,100 police officers. During his 21 years of service with DPD, he has over 12 years of command experience with over six years at the rank of commander or above.

"The selection of Mr. Barren as the new police chief will serve the community well," commented City Administrator Fred Zorn. "With over 20 years of solid law enforcement experience in protecting and serving the public, he will make a great addition to our team and will carry on the high standards of the city of Southfield and the Southfield Police Department."

Chief Barren holds an Associates of Science degree in Law Enforcement Administration from Wayne County Community College, a Bachelor of Science in Public Administration from Central Michigan University and is currently completing a Master's of Science in Criminal Justice from Bowling Green State University. Mr. Barren is also a graduate of the Senior Management Institute for Police and has completed training at the Police Executives' and New Chiefs' School, sponsored by the Michigan Association of Chiefs of Police. Chief Barren also completed the Leadership in Counterterrorism Program (LinCT) sponsored by the FBI and has completed several other training and leadership development programs.

He previously served as the Deputy Chief of Neighborhood Policing Bureau-East for the Detroit

Chief Barren is also a veteran of the United States Navy, serving eight years as an Operations Specialist in addition to his over 20 years of experience in law enforcement, with eight years at the supervisory, management and executive levels.

The city of Southfield conducted a comprehensive national search to fill the Chief of Police position following the resignation of former Chief Eric Hawkins last September. Southfield Deputy Police Chiefs Nick Loussia and Brian Bassett were selected as the Acting Police Chiefs by City Administrator Fred Zorn during the chief recruitment process.

"This outstanding appointment reflects the City's utmost commitment to the safety and security of Southfield residents, businesses and all those who enter the City on a daily basis," added Mayor Ken Siver. "The Southfield Police Department will continue to function extremely efficiently under the direction of Chief Barren – providing the community with unparalleled public safety and proactive law enforcement services and programs.

Nine Mile Road and bridge project complete

$8 million project part of an overall $100 million infrastructure investment over 10 years

The city of Southfield held a ribbon cutting ceremony to celebrate the completion of the Nine Mile Road and bridge construction project on Wednesday, June 5 at the bridge site located between Telegraph and Lahser.

The project included the complete removal and replacement of the bridge over the Evans Branch of the Rouge River. The bridge was elevated eight feet higher than the previous structure to reduce the vertical curve of the road to improve sight distances. An eight-foot sidewalk was installed on each side of the bridge; however, the south sidewalk is for future use as there is currently no connecting sidewalk on the south side of Nine Mile Road.

Traffic volumes have allowed Nine Mile Road to be reduced to three lanes with one lane in each direction and a center left turn between Telegraph and Lahser. Nine Mile was rehabilitated by removing the curbs and covering the existing concrete pavement with two inches of stone which was then paved with five-and-a-half inches of asphalt. All new curbs and driveways were constructed with full reconstruction in the segments close to Telegraph Road and Lahser Road, as well as segments adjacent to the new bridge to accommodate the elevation change.

Utility work related to the bridge replacement included 200 feet of 16-inch water main relocation and concrete encasement of Oakland County Water Resources Commission's 36-inch sanitary interceptor, which crosses beneath the west bridge abutment. In addition, 548 feet of 10-inch sanitary sewer east of Plum Hollow Street was found to be in poor condition and was also replaced.

The total project cost was $8,100,000 with $3,306,600 in Federal funds and $1,425,000 in State Local Bridge funds. The City of Southfield's cost share was $3,368,400. Funding for the City's portion of the project was provided from the Road Bond Construction Fund ($3,265,715) and the Water & Sewer budget ($102,685).

For more information on the 9 Mile Road and bridge project, call the Southfield Engineering Department at (248) 796-4810.

Greg Kennedy Community Service Award

The City of Southfield is currently seeking nominations for the 2019 Greg Kennedy Community Service Award. The Award was originally established in 1999 to honor the legacy of community activist Greg Kennedy by encouraging other residents to engage in public service. Greg Kennedy was one of Southfield's first residents and demonstrated his commitment to the City throughout his entire lifetime. He established the City's first Southfield Homeowners Coalition and annually sent numerous low-income children to attend the Shriner's Circus. He visited senior homes in Southfield every week to help out, entertain and listen. He was an outspoken advocate for seniors and young people alike and was known for standing up for other people's rights. Since its inception, there have been only six recipients of the award, including: Samuel P. Havis in 2000; Jacqueline Nelson in 2001; Muriel Zweigel in 2003; Jon Adams in 2016; Roger Goolsby in 2017; and Patricia Haynie in 2018.

Nominations for the 2019 Greg Kennedy Award are due by November 1. For more information, call Community Relations at (248) 796-5130 or visit www.cityofsouthfield.com.

City of Southfield earns strong AA rating with $68M bond sale

The city of Southfield's AA bond rating was reaffirmed on April 9 by Standard & Poor's, one of the nation's major bond rating agencies, placing the City among the top rated governmental agencies in Michigan. The new rating comes with the City's $68 million Water and Sewer Capital Improvement Bonds sale on April 17 which will provide funding for citywide infrastructure repairs and improvements.

In preparing to sell the bonds, the City requested a Standard & Poor's Rating Service evaluation of the City of Southfield's credit quality. Standard & Poor's reaffirmed the City's strong underlying bond ratings of "AA."

"Achieving this strong bond rating is extremely important to the City's business reputation and benefits all taxpayers of the City," commented Southfield City Council President Dr. Lloyd Crews. "Major capital projects are necessary to keep the City first class and bond issues are necessary to fund such projects. A strong bond rating for the City, much like a strong credit score to an individual, enables us to save money by getting lower interest rates on the bonds. The AA bond rating confirms Southfield's ability to effectively manage financial resources, making it an attractive destination for new business development, redevelopment and future fiscal growth. It is critical that we stay on course financially, which includes holding-the-line and strictly adhering to our 2019-20 budget plan."

The 'AA' rating reflects S&P's assessment of the general creditworthiness of the city, including the following factors:

- Strong economy with access to a broad and diverse metropolitan statistical area (MSA);
- Strong management, with good financial policies and practices under our Financial Management Assessment (FMA) methodology;

- Strong budgetary performance, with an operating surplus in the general fund and break-even operating results at the total governmental fund level in fiscal 2018;
- Very strong budgetary flexibility, with an available fund balance in fiscal 2018 of 37 percent of operating expenditures;
- Very strong liquidity, with total government available cash at 24 percent of total governmental fund expenditures and 2.3x governmental debt service, and access to external liquidity which is considered strong; and
- Strong institutional framework score.

Moreover, S&P indicated that Southfield's economy remains strong as the city continues to rebound from the last recession, diversify, and exhibit tax base growth. The bond sale received significant interest with nine firms from across the U.S. bidding. The sale secured an impressive 2.88 percent interest rate, as compared to the 2.95 percent interest rate for the city's most previous bond sale, resulting in an almost $3 million savings compared to the estimated interest costs in the preliminary prospectus.

"Having a strong credit score is an extremely important and impressive accomplishment for any municipality," stated City Treasurer Irv Lowenberg. "This strong rating saves taxpayers' money when the City needs to sell bonds to fund major capital projects like roads, bridges, and water/sewer system improvements. The Water and Sewer Bond funds are a critical match to our Street Bond funds, allowing the City to continue with our aggressive capital improvement projects throughout our neighborhoods. A strong credit rating also results in lower interest costs and better terms for any bond issues. The AA rating is also a sign of financial stability with good management systems in place and a strong set of fiscal policies established by City Council. This is teamwork in action. All elected officials and the City’s management staff are united in their commitment to maintaining the financial integrity and strong financial position of the City. There is a long-range future vision at work here.”

In addition to city staff, the bond sale was facilitated by the financial advising firm, Public Financial Management, LLC, transfer agent Huntington National Bank and the law firm serving as bond counsel, Miller, Canfield, Paddock and Stone, P.L.C.
